FZR/FZS/SHO/ FX/VX Intake Manifold Power Sleeve

$39.95

At first glance our FZR intake sleeve may look like the other sleeves on the market, but like all of our products we put that extra testing and detail into this part making it out perform the competition. The core of our sleeve has been machined to swirl the air as it enters the intake manifold which has been proven to increase throttle response and power in the automotive performance world for years. This small detail helps control the turbulent air into a more direct airstream which is more efficient for the engine to process. The installation of this product will eliminate the restrictive stock intake pipe with out decreasing reliability. The stock ECU will compensate for this small change in pressure and increase reliability.
